Sahara heats up the Slate Market in Australia Tegatech Australia launches the new TabletKiosk Tablet PC

Monday, March 05, 2007 - Australia's only Tablet PC specific Distributor, Tegatech Australia, today released pricing for its latest offering in their Tablet PC range. In keeping with its Exclusive Master Distributor Rights in Australia and New Zealand, Tegatech has announced the new Sahara Slate by Silicon Valley manufacturer TabletKiosk.

The Sahara Slate comes in two flavours, i.e. Touch Screen, and new dual-mode Active Digitizer/Touch. Designed to directly compete against the Fujitsu and Motion Computing Slates the new TabletKiosk is the most powerful Slate in its class. Specifications include: 1.83GHz Intel Core Duo CPU, support for up to 4GB of RAM, PCMCIA slot, biometrics, PCI express VGA and Microsoft Windows Vista. With the full intention of shaking the Tablet market

TabletKiosk has built an all inclusive device.

Touch Screen slates have been supplied by Tegatech Australia to its channel of resellers for close to three years now. The new Sahara slates will include VESA mount screws on the undercarriage of the chassis therefore addressing Home Automation and Data Mining vertical market requiring permanent mount solutions. Meanwhile the i440D, with its ability to simultaneously support Touch Screen technology and Active Digitizer Pen, will address countless mobile solutions. The new Sahara i440T and i412T are specialized touch screen tablets which sit nicely within POS (Point Of Sale) and Mobile Sales Force units.

The range of i-Series Sahara start from as low as $3,300 RRP and the new margin scheme negotiated by Tegatech will ensure resellers are constantly motivated to introduce the product. Pricing is now live and Authorised Resellers may login immediately to obtain their pricing. As always Tegatech welcomes new Resellers addressing niche opportunities.
